KEYNOTE SPEAKER

Katie Couric

ANDREW ECCLES

The senior class officers of the Class of 2015 invited Katie Couric to speak at commencement because of her trailblazing work both as a journalist and an advocate for cancer prevention and research.

An award-winning journalist and TV personality, Couric is also a documentary film producer and the New York Times best-selling author of The Best Advice I Ever Got: Lessons From Extraordinary Lives.

In November 2013, Couric joined Yahoo as global anchor, developing Yahoo News' coverage, reporting on live events, and anchoring interviews with major newsmakers. She previously co-anchored NBC's Today show for 15 years and in 2006 became the first woman to serve as solo anchor of an evening news broadcast, for CBS News.

Couric is a co-founder of Stand Up To Cancer (SU2C), co-founder of the National Colorectal Cancer Research Alliance (NCCRA) with the Entertainment Industry Foundation (EIF) and Lilly Tartikoff, and co-founder of the Jay Monahan Center for Gastrointestinal Health. Stand Up To Cancer has raised $280 million to fund scientific dream teams that tackle numerous cancers in collaborative and innovative ways.

Born in Arlington, Virginia, Couric graduated with honors from the University of Virginia. She lives in New York with her husband and two daughters.

CHANCELLOR

Rebecca M. Blank

Rebecca M. Blank became chancellor of the University of Wisconsin–Madison in July 2013.

Blank’s experience blends a knowledge of economics with a history of leading through innovation, and a background as an educator and researcher. In taking the position, Blank spoke of two distinct agendas for UW–Madison: providing the next generation with the skills necessary to succeed in the world’s changing economy, and maintaining this university’s position as a leader in innovation and research.

Leading Wisconsin’s flagship university represents a return to academia for Blank. From 2009 to 2013, she served in top positions at the U.S. Department of Commerce. She started as under secretary for economic affairs, and then was named deputy secretary and acting secretary of the agency, managing nearly 45,000 employees and a $10 billion budget. During her time at Commerce, Blank not only led a large and complex organization, but also worked to promote economic development with an emphasis on connecting research and innovation with job creation and economic growth. Before joining the Department, she was a fellow at the Brookings Institution, a nonprofit public policy research think tank in Washington, D.C.

Blank brings strong academic credentials to the position of chancellor. She served as dean and professor of public policy and economics in the Gerald R. Ford School of Public Policy at the University of Michigan from 1999 to 2008. In her role as dean, she launched such innovations as interdisciplinary graduate programs and an undergraduate public policy major. Earlier in her career, she was a member of the faculty at Northwestern University and Princeton University, as well as an assistant visiting professor at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. She also spent two years, from 1997 to 1999, as a member of the President’s Council of Economic Advisers. Blank was on the UW–Madison campus in fall 1985 as a visiting fellow in the Department of Economics and the Institute for Research on Poverty.

Blank was born in Missouri and later moved to Minnesota. She earned an undergraduate degree in economics from the University of Minnesota, and a doctoral degree in economics from MIT.

HONORARY DEGREE

Peter B. Dervan

ROBERT J. PAZ

Peter B. Dervan is the Bren Professor of Chemistry at the California Institute of Technology. Dervan pioneered a field of chemistry with studies directed toward understanding the chemical principles for the sequence specific recognition of DNA. Small molecules that modulate protein-DNA interfaces may be useful for the external control of aberrant gene expression relevant in human disease.

Professor Dervan has received numerous awards for his research accomplishments, including the 2006 National Medal of Science from President Bush. He is a member of the National Academy of Sciences, the Institute of Medicine, the American Academy of Arts and Sciences, and the American Philosophical Society.

Dervan has published more than 340 scientific papers and trained over 160 coworkers, including more than 60 faculty members who are now at major research universities. With his wife, the distinguished chemist Jackie Barton, he has championed the advancement of women in scientific careers.

Dervan is considered an outstanding teacher and inspiring lecturer. He has served on several scientific advisory boards for the biotechnology industries, and as a scientific co-founder of Gilead Sciences.

HONORARY DEGREE

Estella Leopold

Estella Leopold has devoted the last seven decades to an academic career of extraordinary accomplishment alongside an active commitment to environmental conservation. A 1948 alumna of the University of Wisconsin, she is an emeritus professor of botany, forest resources, and quaternary research at the University of Washington.

Trained in paleobotany, Leopold broadened her focus into the relationships among prehistoric life forms. She helped lay the foundations for the new field of paleoecology, which reconstructs the structure and function of ancient ecosystems. Her many honors include election to the National Academy of Sciences in 1974 and the International Cosmos Prize in 2010.

A daughter of the legendary Aldo Leopold, she has played a critical role in leading and expanding the Leopold Foundation throughout her career. In keeping with her family's rich tradition of service, she has worked to preserve the landscapes and habitats of the American West and Southwest, most notably blocking the construction of dams in the Grand Canyon and establishing the Florissant Fossil Beds National Monument.

HONORARY DEGREE

William Linton

Bill Linton has not only established his company, Promega Inc., as a leader in the field of life science supplies and service, he has shaped the company and his community in keeping with a broader vision of ethical management and citizenship.

Linton has lived in the Madison area since coming here for graduate study in the School of Pharmacy; he transitioned from his graduate work to starting Promega in 1978. Today, Promega serves scientists in more than 100 countries in their search for new drugs, diagnostic techniques, modes of genetic identification, and discovery around human life and disease.

Linton has emphasized environmental sustainability, and employee wellness and support, in Promega's operations. He has also worked to promote responsible economic development in the company's home city of Fitchburg through the Fitchburg Center initiative.

On campus, he offers insight and perspective to departments and colleges and provides opportunities for professional development to students and faculty, at home and abroad.

"The ways in which he is involved with his community, whether defined as Fitchburg or Shanghai, speaks to his extraordinary accomplishments and desire to use his success to make the world a better place," write Steve Swanson, dean of the School of Pharmacy, and François Ortalo-Magné, Albert O. Nicholas Dean of the Wisconsin School of Business. "We believe Bill Linton is the epitome of someone 'leading an extraordinary life.'"

HONORARY DEGREE

Michael Splinter

After earning undergraduate and master's degrees at UW–Madison, both in electrical and computer engineering, Mike Splinter landed at Intel Corporation in Silicon Valley as it became the epicenter of microchip technology. In 2003, he became CEO of Applied Materials, where he identified solar energy – particularly photovoltaic cells – as an area rich with opportunity. The Semiconductor Industry Association credits him with transforming the production of these cells from a “boutique industry to a meaningful source of renewable energy power to the world.”

Community service is a critical element in Splinter's professional and personal philosophies. This commitment has taken many forms: fighting hunger through supporting area food banks, launching a program to invest in struggling local schools, and working with the Clinton Global Initiative to electrify villages in rural India.

Splinter has always acknowledged his debt to UW–Madison as an active alumnus in the San Francisco Bay area and, more recently, as a member of the board of directors for the UW Foundation.

BOARD OF REGENTS

Edmund Manydeeds, III

University of Wisconsin System Regent Edmund Manydeeds, of Eau Claire, Wisconsin, was named to the Board of Regents in 2010. He is an attorney with the Eau Claire firm of Richie, Guettinger & Manydeeds. A member of the Standing Rock Sioux Tribe, he is the first Native American to serve on the Board.

Manydeeds was appointed by the Supreme Court of Wisconsin to the Board of Attorneys Professional Responsibility (now known as the Office of Lawyer Regulation), serving from 1990 to 1995, and was reappointed to the Board of Attorneys Professional Responsibility during its reconstruction by the Supreme Court in 2000. He also served on Governor Jim Doyle's Judicial Selection Committee. As a lecturer and instructor, he has served in the Lawyering Skills Program offered by the University of Wisconsin Law School and presented at various civil trial seminars. His practice areas include civil litigation (auto, farm, and product injuries), insurance coverage questions, municipal tort litigation, and mediation.

Manydeeds earned a law degree from the University of Wisconsin Law School and an undergraduate degree in sociology and social work from UW-Superior.

WISCONSIN ALUMNI ASSOCIATION

Kelli Trumble

Kelli Trumble is chair of the Wisconsin Alumni Association's President's Advisory Council. Trumble began her career in print media, following her studies in the UW–Madison School of Journalism and Mass Communication. After her hometown pride drew her to return to Wisconsin Dells, she built Sundara Inn and Spa, named one of the top five destination spas in the world by readers of Travel + Leisure magazine. She served a fruitful tenure as executive director of the Wisconsin Dells Visitor and Convention Bureau, then spent four years as Wisconsin's secretary of tourism. She currently owns several retail ventures in the Wisconsin Dells area and is a passionate ambassador for the natural resources that define the region.

Trumble received her undergraduate degree in journalism from UW–Madison in 1979.

Senior Class Officers

Senior class officers are elected through Associated Students of Madison (ASM) spring elections prior to beginning their service in the fall of their senior year.

The officers partner with the Office of the Chancellor, the Division of Student Life, the Wisconsin Alumni Association (WAA), and the UW Foundation. The Senior Class Officers raise funds for the senior class gift and help to plan winter and spring commencement as well as senior social events in cooperation with WAA.

Maria Giannopoulos, president

Giannopoulos, of Sheboygan, Wis., graduates with majors in political analysis and research and communication arts with a leadership certificate. On campus, she has served as student body vice president and representative for the Associated Students of Madison. In addition, she is heavily involved with her service fraternity Alpha Phi Omega and helped found Alpha Xi Delta sorority. Off campus, her experience includes a summer in London with the British House of Commons, a spring internship at Walt Disney World, and work with Fox News in New York. She hopes to earn her MBA and work in the political arena.

Annie Paul, vice president

Paul, of Aurora, Ill., double majors in biology and political science with a certificate in business. Last year, Paul served as vice president of the Wisconsin Union; she has previously held executive leadership roles in College Democrats and Amnesty International. She currently interns with Badger Volunteers at the Morgridge Center for Public Service and enjoys membership in Delta Gamma and Union Council. Last summer, Paul interned with General Electric's Financial Management Program. Upon graduation, she will join TripleTree in Minneapolis, Minn., as an investment banking analyst with a healthcare industry focus.

Douglas (Dougie) L. Moss, secretary

Moss, of Northbrook, Ill., graduated in December 2014 with a major in biology and a certificate in leadership. On campus, he has been an active member of Greek life and served as philanthropy chair for his chapter of the Alpha Epsilon Pi fraternity. He also represented the College of Letters and Science on the Associated Students of Madison

Student Council. Moss has enjoyed volunteering with the UW Health hospital system for the past two years; he plans to apply to medical school this summer to pursue his dream of caring for others.

Brady Beck, treasurer

Beck, of West Bend, Wis., is double majoring in accounting and risk management & insurance. In order to pursue a career in accounting, he plans to spend an additional year in the Wisconsin School of Business to become eligible for the CPA exam. Awarded the Evans Scholarship, he served as president last year; during his four years in the Evans

House, he served as the chair of the community service committee and alumni committee. Currently, he interns in the accounting department for the Wisconsin Union.

The University of Wisconsin–Madison

The University of Wisconsin–Madison and its alumni have a rich tradition of national and international leadership in teaching, research, and public service. We regularly rank among the top universities in research dollars and have produced high numbers of Fortune 500 CEOs. We are also rated among the strongest in the world in international reputation, in part due to producing the second highest contingent all-time of Peace Corps volunteers. And, as any visitor can readily attest, our beautiful lakeshore campus is considered to be among the nation’s most picturesque.

This university has existed for as long as Wisconsin has been a state, tracing its roots to a clause in the Constitution of the State of Wisconsin decreeing that the young state should have a prominent public university. In 1848, legislators passed a bill that formally created the University of Wisconsin. Its first class, with 17 students, met in Madison on February 5, 1849.

From these humble beginnings, the university has grown into a large, diverse community with more than 43,000 students representing every county in Wisconsin, 50 states, and 123 countries.

Across campus, the words “sifting and winnowing” often appear when describing UW–Madison’s intellectual life. They date back to an 1894 Board of Regents statement on academic freedom:

“Whatever may be the limitations which trammel inquiry elsewhere, we believe that the great state University of Wisconsin should ever encourage that continual and fearless sifting and winnowing by which alone the truth can be found.”

Inspired by this spirit, scholarly inquiry has fed a steady stream of discoveries. From vitamins, agricultural techniques and wildlife ecology to stem cells, biofuels and economic well-being, the university continues to foster ideas and research that change lives.

UW–Madison is the oldest and largest campus in the University of Wisconsin System. Its mission is to provide “a learning environment in which faculty, staff and students can discover, examine critically, preserve and transmit the knowledge, wisdom and values that will help ensure the survival of this and future generations and improve the quality of life for all.”

The university strives to achieve these ends through the continual advancement of its teaching, research and public service programs. Throughout its history, the university has sought to bring the power of learning into students’ daily lives through innovations such as residential learning communities and service learning courses.

We are motivated by the “Wisconsin Idea” — articulated a century ago as the principle that the university’s influence should benefit everyone in the state. Today, this principle has expanded to a global scale. The Wisconsin Idea continues to permeate everything we do, helping to forge close partnerships between faculty, staff and students, and people, communities and industries around the world.

Program Notes

The school and college flags used in today's ceremony were commissioned for this event by Chancellor Rebecca Blank. They will be used in this and other similar ceremonies, including the Chancellor's Convocation for first-year students in August — the complementary celebration to Commencement in students' university careers.

Inspired by the university's location along Lake Mendota, University Marketing senior designer Nancy Rinehart incorporated the traditional academic color of each school or college over a wave pattern. Colors on each flag reflect the traditional academic colors for the courses of study within each school or college. The Graduate School, School of Education and College of Letters & Science are multicolored, representing their varied disciplines. Flags also feature the year in which each school or college was founded, from 1848 for the Law School and School of Medicine and Public Health (authorized in the charter for the newly created university) to 1983 for the School of Veterinary Medicine.

Academic Attire

Formal academic attire is an important component of the pageantry of the commencement ceremony.

Gowns

Gowns represent the three principal levels of academic achievement. The bachelor's gown, symbolizing the first degree, is made of black material and has a closed front and long, pointed, open sleeves. Master's candidates wear a black gown with a closed front and long, closed sleeves. The gown worn by doctoral candidates has an open front with bell-shaped sleeves. Doctoral gowns are further embellished with velvet trim in the form of crossbars on the sleeves. These are generally black but may be colored to represent the profession or major field of interest. Some doctoral gowns are colored to represent the distinctive identity of a particular institution or field of study. The latter types of gowns are generally worn without the hood.

Hoods

Academic hoods are used as a further means of identifying the level of degree attainment. The bachelor's hood, worn only by those who have previously received a baccalaureate degree, is rather short and has a narrow velvet edging the color of the appropriate discipline, with a lining in the color of the institution—cardinal at UW–Madison. The master's hood is considerably longer, has a wider velvet edging, and exposes more of the lining. Doctoral hoods have the widest velvet edging, wide panels at either side, greater length, and a fully exposed lining.

Caps and Tassels

Candidates for the bachelor's degree wear the black mortarboard cap with tassels of their course color. The tassel is worn on the right side until the formal conferral of the degree. At that time, the tassel is worn on the left side. Candidates for all higher degrees wear black mortarboard caps with black tassels on the left side. Some holders of degrees from other countries or institutions wear special hats that are distinctive to their degree.

Stoles

Bachelor's degree candidates who have been awarded honors in general scholarship are distinguished by cardinal stoles. Law degree candidates who have been awarded the Dean's Academic Achievement Award are similarly distinguished by cardinal stoles. White stoles with cardinal bars distinguish bachelor's degree candidates participating in an honors program.

This list of undergraduate degree candidates was compiled from information available to the Office of the Registrar as of April 10, 2015, and should not be regarded as conclusive evidence of graduation or academic standing.

Selection as an honors candidate indicates participation in the honors program in the student's school or college and does not necessarily indicate fulfillment of the requirements for a degree with honors.

A student selected for distinctive scholastic achievement has completed a minimum of 60 credits at UW–Madison and has a cumulative grade-point average placing her/him within the top 20% of graduating students in the school or college.
