KEYNOTE SPEAKER

Jon Huntsman, Jr.

The senior class officers of the Class of 2014 have selected Jon M. Huntsman, Jr., former governor of Utah and U.S. ambassador to both Singapore and China, to address degree candidates during spring commencement exercises.

Huntsman began his career in public service as a staff assistant to President Ronald Reagan. He has since served four U.S. presidents in critical roles around the world, including ambassador to Singapore, deputy assistant secretary of commerce for Asia, U.S. trade ambassador and most recently U.S. ambassador to China. He ran as a candidate for the Republican presidential nomination until leaving the race in January 2012.

Twice elected as Utah’s governor, Huntsman brought about strong economic reforms, tripled the state’s rainy day fund and helped bring unemployment rates to historic lows. Recognized by peers for his service, Huntsman was elected chair of the Western Governors’ Association, serving 19 states throughout the region.

Huntsman’s business leadership is also well known from his time at the helm of Huntsman Corporation, the multibillion-dollar chemical company founded by his father. The hands-on experience he gained over three decades helped make Huntsman Corporation a strong family business with deep philanthropic connections.

Huntsman has served as a visiting fellow at Harvard’s John F. Kennedy School of Government as well as a distinguished lecturer at Duke University’s Sanford School of Public Policy. A graduate of the University of Pennsylvania, he has also received seven honorary doctoral degrees.

He currently serves on the boards of Ford Motor Company, Caterpillar Corporation, Huntsman Corporation, the U.S. Naval Academy Foundation and the University of Pennsylvania. In addition, he serves as a distinguished fellow at the Brookings Institution, a trustee of the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace, a trustee of the Reagan Presidential Foundation, chair of the Huntsman Cancer Foundation and chair of the board of the Atlantic Council of the United States.

“The University of Wisconsin–Madison is one of the premier institutions of higher education in the world,” says Huntsman. “Those in the graduating class of 2014 will make contributions to bettering our lives in ways that today we can’t even imagine. I consider it a great honor to be a small part of sending them off to conquer the opportunities ahead.”
Rebecca M. Blank became chancellor of the University of Wisconsin–Madison in July 2013.

Blank's experience blends a knowledge of economics with a history of leading through innovation, and a background as an educator and researcher. In taking the position, Blank spoke of two distinct agendas for UW–Madison: providing the next generation with the skills necessary to succeed in the world’s changing economy, and maintaining this university’s position as a leader in innovation and research.

Leading Wisconsin’s flagship university represents a return to academia for Blank. From 2009 to 2013, she served in top positions at the U.S. Department of Commerce. She started as under secretary for economic affairs, and then was named deputy secretary and acting secretary of the agency, managing nearly 45,000 employees and a $10 billion budget. During her time at Commerce, Blank not only led a large and complex organization, but also worked to promote economic development with an emphasis on connecting research and innovation with job creation and economic growth. Before joining the Department, she was a fellow at the Brookings Institution, a nonprofit public policy research think tank in Washington, D.C.

Blank brings strong academic credentials to the position of chancellor. She served as dean and professor of public policy and economics in the Gerald R. Ford School of Public Policy at the University of Michigan from 1999 to 2008. In her role as dean, she launched such innovations as interdisciplinary graduate programs and an undergraduate public policy major. Earlier in her career, she was a member of the faculty at Northwestern University and Princeton University, as well as an assistant visiting professor at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. She also spent two years, from 1997 to 1999, as a member of the President’s Council of Economic Advisers. Blank was on the UW–Madison campus in fall 1985 as a visiting fellow in the Department of Economics and the Institute for Research on Poverty, and has attended many conferences and events here.

Blank was born in Missouri and later moved to Minnesota. She earned an undergraduate degree in economics from the University of Minnesota, and a doctoral degree in economics from MIT.
Rocco Landesman, a 1969 UW–Madison graduate with a bachelor’s degree in English, has brought multiple award-winning plays and musicals to the stage, including works by contemporary playwrights August Wilson, Marsha Norman and Tony Kushner. His work as a producer and advocate for new work redirected the American theater at a vital time for the history of commercial and regional theater.

Landesman served as chair of the National Endowment for the Arts from August 2009 through December 2012. During his tenure, he pursued three major initiatives: Art Works, which sought outcome-focused reinvigoration of the agency’s granting program; Our Town, which posited art projects as drivers of community revitalization; and ArtPlace, an effort involving collaboration between 13 national and regional foundations and six of the nation’s largest banks to increase funding for the arts. He also worked with other federal agencies to build relationships, including bringing music therapy to the Walter Reed National Military Medical Center.

Landesman became the President of Jujamcyn Theaters, which owns and operates five Broadway theaters, in 1987, and purchased the company in 2005.

Landesman was born and raised in St. Louis, Missouri, and pursued his undergraduate education at Colby College before attending UW–Madison. He earned a doctorate in dramatic literature at the Yale School of Drama. At the completion of his coursework, he stayed at the school for four years, working as an assistant professor.

Landesman has been active on numerous boards, including the Municipal Arts Society, an advocacy organization concerned with New York City’s public spaces and preservation; the Times Square Alliance, which has radically changed the heart of the city by improving its safety, sanitation and aesthetic; The Actor’s Fund; and the Educational Foundation of America. Over the years, he has also returned to the Yale School of Drama and Yale Rep to teach.
HONORARY DEGREE

Thomas Lyon

Thomas Lyon began his career at Midwest Breeders Cooperative in 1967, and helped expand the business beyond its regional base. Through several mergers, the company evolved into a nationwide cooperative known as 21st Century Genetics, which quickly became an international force in the cattle breeding industry.

In 1991, Lyon initiated the formation and served as the president of the first U.S. agricultural holding cooperative, Cooperative Resources International, an organization with more than 1,250 employees, 50,000 farmer-members and more than $100 million in revenue. The Shawano, Wisconsin-based cooperative includes Genex Cooperative (cattle breeding services), AgSource Cooperative Services (milk recording and data management services) and the Central Livestock Association (cattle marketing services).

Lyon is a 1962 graduate of Iowa State University with a bachelor’s degree in dairy science. He was a member of the UW System Board of Regents for seven years, including a term as the board’s president from 1990 to 1992. He presided over the hiring of two of the most influential women in the history of higher education in Wisconsin, former UW–Madison Chancellor Donna Shalala and former UW System President Katharine Lyall.

Lyon also served on the College of Agricultural and Life Sciences Board of Visitors and on the UW-Extension Board of Visitors. He is a past board member of American Farmland Trust; member of the Wisconsin Stewardship Task Force; and served as cochair of the Future of Farming and Rural Life in Wisconsin study. He was inducted into the Cooperative Hall of Fame in 2006. In 2013, Lyon received the Rod Nilsestuen Award for Working Lands Preservation for his efforts to protect farmland in Wisconsin and nationally.
David Maraniss is an associate editor at the Washington Post and a three-time Pulitzer Prize finalist. He won the Pulitzer for national reporting in 1993 for his newspaper coverage of then-presidential candidate Bill Clinton. He was also part of the Post team that won a 2008 Pulitzer Prize for the newspaper’s coverage of the Virginia Tech shootings.

Maraniss grew up in Madison and attended UW–Madison, though he left the university in 1975 to work for the Times in Trenton, New Jersey before receiving his undergraduate degree. He joined the Post two years later.

Maraniss has authored 10 books, including biographies of Presidents Barack Obama, Barack Obama: The Story, and Bill Clinton, First in His Class. When Pride Still Mattered: A Life of Vince Lombardi, his biography of the famed Green Bay Packers coach, is considered one of the best sports biographies ever published. His book They Marched into Sunlight movingly juxtaposes two very different events that happened on Oct. 17 and 18, 1967: a brutal battle involving a U.S. Army battalion in Vietnam, and an antiwar demonstration on the UW–Madison campus that turned violent.

Maraniss has won several other notable awards for achievements in journalism, including the George Polk Award, the Dirksen Prize for Congressional Reporting, the ASNE Laventhol Prize for Deadline Writing, the Hancock Prize for Financial Writing, the Anthony Lukas Book Prize, the Frankfort Book Prize, the Eagleton Book Prize, the Ambassador Book Prize and Latino Book Prize.

Maraniss maintains a residence in Madison. He has been active in the community, serving as a trustee of the Wisconsin Union, a supporter of the Wisconsin Book Festival, and the honorary chair of the campaign to raise funds to renovate the Madison Central Library.
University of Wisconsin System Regent Tim Higgins, of Appleton, Wisconsin, is the owner and principal of ChiRho Services, a consulting firm that works with health care providers to improve patient outcomes, increase patient satisfaction and reduce total cost of care by promoting understanding and fostering communication among stakeholders.

A community activist dedicated to meeting the needs of the Fox Valley, Higgins serves as a member of the Board of IndUS of Fox Valley, an Indo-American friendship organization organized in 1999 by members of the Fox Valley India Association. He has served on the boards of directors of the Family Service Association of the Fox Valley, United Way Fox Cities, Fox Cities Chamber of Commerce, Community Foundation for the Fox Valley Region and the Local Emergency Assistance Valley Evangelical Network (LEAVEN).

Higgins earned an undergraduate degree in economics from UW–Madison in 1977 and later earned a law degree from IIT–Chicago Kent College of Law. He has served two terms on the Wisconsin Alumni Association national board and earned the Alumni Advocate of the Year Award in 2005.
Wisconsin Alumni Association board chair Jay Sekelsky serves as executive director and chief investment officer for Madison Investment Advisors, Incorporated, an asset management company with clients that include individuals as well as hospitals, foundations, endowments, religious organizations, corporations, municipalities, unions, financial institutions and insurance companies. Sekelsky is a member of the executive committee and the board of directors and serves as lead portfolio manager for several equity portfolio strategies. He was a Morningstar Domestic-Stock Manager of the Year Finalist in 2006.

In addition to the Wisconsin Alumni Association, Sekelsky serves on several nonprofit boards, including the University of Wisconsin Foundation board of directors, vice chair of the board of trustees for the United Way of Dane County Foundation, and Wisconsin School of Business–Hawk Equity Portfolio Advisory Board for the Applied Securities Analysis Program. Sekelsky earned an undergraduate degree in accounting in 1981 and an MBA in finance in 1987, both from the UW–Madison.
Senior Class Officers

On behalf of the class officers, congratulations on your commencement!

Senior class officers are elected through Associated Students of Madison (ASM) spring elections prior to beginning their service in the fall of their senior year.

The officers partner with the Chancellor’s Office, the Division of Student Life, the Wisconsin Alumni Association (WAA) and the UW Foundation. The senior class officers help to plan spring and winter commencement as well as senior social events and senior week events in cooperation with WAA.

Your future got started at the UW–Madison, and the UW–Madison's future starts with you.

Visit uwseniors.com to learn more and get involved with the Class of 2014 Gift. On, Wisconsin!

Joseph Meeker, president

Meeker, of Waunakee, Wisconsin, graduates with majors in economics and philosophy. He plans to attend law school. A member of the MadHatters, Madison’s premier all-male a cappella group, Meeker served as its business manager for two years. He is a campus tour guide with Campus and Visitor Relations and a member of the Wisconsin Alumni Student Board. Previously, he served as a house fellow in Barnard Hall and was a member of the UW Mock Trial team.

Nicholas Checker, secretary

Checker, of Oak Creek, Wisconsin, graduates with majors in history and political science, as well as honors in the liberal arts. He plans to work in Washington, D.C. on foreign policy issues before pursuing a graduate degree in international relations or diplomatic history. Throughout his collegiate years, Checker has been involved in student government, including serving as chief justice of ASM’s student judiciary. He spent two summers interning in Uganda on a financial literacy campaign and with the State Department.

Andrew Bulovsky, vice president

Bulovsky, of Lodi, Wisconsin, graduates with majors in political science and communication arts. Selected as a Marshall Scholar, he will pursue a graduate degree in political science at the London School of Economics this fall. Bulovsky has been heavily involved for three years in ASM and served this past year as its chair. He has interned with the British House of Commons in London and the American Enterprise Institute for Public Policy Research in Washington, D.C. He is the current vice president for public relations of the Wisconsin Union.

Sarah Neibart, treasurer

Neibart, of Morristown, New Jersey, graduates with majors in political science and Middle Eastern studies. On campus, Neibart has worked in ASM, the Greek system and many other student organizations to further student involvement and the Wisconsin Idea among students, faculty and staff. She has interned at the Republican National Committee and the U.S. House of Representatives, as well as in the office of Governor Scott Walker. She studied abroad in Egypt during the spring of 2013. Neibart has accepted a position with the Heritage Foundation, a Washington, D.C. think tank, which will begin following graduation.
The University of Wisconsin–Madison has a rich tradition of national and international leadership in teaching, research and public service. We regularly rank near the top in research dollars and are rated among the strongest in the world in international reputation. Our 400,000 alumni include both the largest contingent of Peace Corps volunteers and the fourth highest number of corporate CEOs. And, as any visitor can readily attest, our beautiful lakeshore campus is considered to be among the nation’s most picturesque.

This university has existed for as long as Wisconsin has been a state, tracing its roots to a clause in the Constitution of the State of Wisconsin decreeing that the young state should have a prominent public university. In 1848, legislators passed a bill that formally created the University of Wisconsin. Its first class, with 17 students, met in Madison on February 5, 1849.

From these humble beginnings, the university has grown into a large, diverse community with more than 43,000 students representing every county in Wisconsin, 48 states and 131 other countries.

Across campus, the words “sifting and winnowing” often appear when describing UW–Madison’s intellectual life. They date back to an 1894 Board of Regents statement on academic freedom:

“Whatsoever may be the limitations which trammel inquiry elsewhere, we believe that the great state University of Wisconsin should ever encourage that continual and fearless sifting and winnowing by which alone the truth can be found.”

Inspired by this spirit, scholarly inquiry has fed a steady stream of discoveries. From vitamins, agricultural techniques and wildlife ecology to stem cells, biofuels and economic well-being, the university continues to foster ideas and research that change lives.

UW–Madison is the oldest and largest campus in the University of Wisconsin System. Its mission is to provide “a learning environment in which faculty, staff and students can discover, examine critically, preserve and transmit the knowledge, wisdom and values that will help ensure the survival of this and future generations and improve the quality of life for all.”

The university strives to achieve these ends through the continual advancement of its teaching, research and public service programs. Throughout its history, the university has sought to bring the power of learning into students’ daily lives through innovations such as residential learning communities and service learning courses.

We are motivated by the “Wisconsin Idea” — articulated a century ago as the principle that the university’s influence should benefit everyone in the state. Today, this principle has expanded to a global scale. The Wisconsin Idea continues to permeate everything we do, helping to forge close partnerships between faculty, staff and students, and people, communities and industries around the world.
Return to Camp Randall

The University of Wisconsin–Madison’s spring commencement exercises look significantly different in 2014, thanks to a partnership between Chancellor Rebecca Blank and the officers of this year’s senior class.

Camp Randall Stadium is among several venues that have hosted commencement exercises in the past. Since the early 1990s, however, the university has hosted four ceremonies at the Kohl Center for all undergraduate majors and most master's students.

This year, approximately 5,400 undergraduates and master’s students, along with their families (estimated at more than 40,000 people) are expected to celebrate together at Camp Randall.

In addition to the keynote address delivered by Jon Huntsman, Jr., the ceremony will feature speakers from the student body and administration, the conferral of degrees by school and program, favorite Wisconsin music from our band, and—of course—close with the singing of “Varsity” as a class. Following the ceremony, graduates will have the opportunity to have a professional photo taken while shaking hands with their school or college’s dean or administrator.

The changes are reflected in a fresh new look for some of the more festive aspects of the ceremony, including flags representing each school and college. The colorful new flags, replacing those used in ceremonies since 1989, are carried during the academic procession by student representatives of their schools and colleges.

Chancellor Blank, who is herself taking part in her first spring commencement exercises at UW–Madison, welcomes the opportunity for graduates and their families to celebrate the achievement of receiving a degree from one of the world’s top institutions.

“This change will help us celebrate together on a grander scale while still involving the more personal elements that students look forward to throughout their time at UW–Madison,” said Blank, when announcing the changes in October 2013. “I’m excited to partner with students to provide an experience that is meaningful for everyone who attends.”

“Sitting alongside your entire graduating class will be a really powerful experience,” agreed Joe Meeker, president of the Class of 2014. “Regardless of your major, school or college, commencement is an opportunity to think about the time we’ve shared with all our fellow Badgers, and there’s no better place to reflect on that than inside Camp Randall.”

The changes came to fruition following several years of discussion between students and staff members. Lori Berquam, vice provost for student life and dean of students, is pleased to see the realization of years of planning and consideration.

“One thing I’ve heard from students is that this is a culminating event for their class and a bookend to the Chancellor’s Convocation for New Students,” she says. “This is an opportunity to feel that affinity, that pride, and see the impact of their class all together in one place.”
Program Notes

The school and college flags used in today’s ceremony were newly commissioned by Chancellor Rebecca Blank for this event. They will be used in this and other similar ceremonies, including the Chancellor’s Convocation for first-year students in August – the complementary celebration to commencement in students’ university careers.

The flags were designed by Emily L. R. Adams and Mali Mrozinski, graduate students in Design Studies in the School of Human Ecology. The organic outline on the center right of each flag represents Lake Mendota, where the UW–Madison campus is located. The motifs reference strengths within the school or college. All 12 flags are tied together through color palette, design format, and texture, creating a contemporary approach to the tradition of scholastic diversity and achievement at UW–Madison.

Flag bearers in the opening procession were selected by the dean of each school and college to represent their fellow students.

Academic Attire

Formal academic attire is an important component of the pageantry of the commencement ceremony.

Gowns
Gowns represent the three principal levels of academic achievement. The bachelor’s gown, symbolizing the first degree, is made of black material and has a closed front and long, pointed, open sleeves. Master’s candidates wear a black gown with a closed front and long, closed sleeves. The gown worn by doctoral candidates has an open front with bell-shaped sleeves. Doctoral gowns are further embellished with velvet trim in the form of crossbars on the sleeves. These are generally black but may be colored to represent the profession or major field of interest. Some doctoral gowns are colored to represent the distinctive identity of a particular institution. The latter types of gowns are generally worn without the hood.

Hoods
Academic hoods are used as a further means of identifying the level of degree attainment. The bachelor’s hood, worn only by those who have previously received a baccalaureate degree, is rather short with a narrow velvet edging the color of the appropriate discipline and a lining in the color of the institution—cardinal at Wisconsin. The master’s hood is considerably longer, has a wider velvet edging and exposes more of the lining. Doctoral hoods have the widest velvet edging, wide panels at either side, greater length and a fully exposed lining.

Caps and Tassels
Candidates for the bachelor’s degree wear the black mortarboard cap with tassels of their course color. The tassel is worn on the right side until the formal conferral of the degree. At that time the tassel is worn on the left side. Candidates for all higher degrees wear black mortarboard caps with black tassels on the left side. Some holders of degrees from other countries or institutions wear special hats which are distinctive to their degree.

Honors
Bachelor’s degree candidates with distinctive scholastic achievement (the top 20 percent within the school or college) wear cardinal stoles over the fronts of their gowns. Bachelor’s degree candidates participating in an honors program wear white stoles with cardinal bars. Law degree candidates who have been awarded the Dean’s Academic Achievement Award are similarly distinguished by cardinal stoles.

This list of undergraduate degree candidates was compiled from information available to the Office of the Registrar as of April 11, 2014, and should not be regarded as conclusive evidence of graduation or academic standing.

Selection as an honors candidate indicates participation in the honors program in the student’s school or college and does not necessarily indicate fulfillment of the requirements for a degree with honors.

A student selected for distinctive scholastic achievement has completed a minimum of 60 credits at UW–Madison and has a cumulative grade-point average placing her/him within the top 20% of graduating students in the school or college.
