Rebecca M. Blank became chancellor of the University of Wisconsin–Madison in July 2013. Since then, she has presided over a major effort to expand and improve educational opportunities, both inside and outside of the classroom, to better prepare students to succeed in a rapidly changing economy. At the same time, she has worked to maintain the university’s position as a global leader in innovation and research and has emphasized the role of the university in nurturing entrepreneurship and driving economic development.

Blank is an internationally respected economist who has also spent time in Washington, DC, working in three different administrations. Most recently, she served as Deputy Secretary and Acting Secretary of the US Department of Commerce under President Obama.

She also brings strong academic credentials to the position of chancellor. She served as dean and professor of public policy and economics in the Gerald R. Ford School of Public Policy at the University of Michigan from 1999 to 2008. In her role as dean, she launched such innovations as interdisciplinary graduate programs and an undergraduate public policy major. Earlier in her career, she was a member of the faculty at Northwestern University and Princeton University.

A native Midwesterner, Blank earned an undergraduate degree in economics from the University of Minnesota and a doctoral degree in economics from MIT.

In 2015, Blank was awarded the Daniel Patrick Moynihan Prize by the American Academy of Political and Social Science. The prize honors individuals who use sound analysis and social science research to inform public policy while also contributing to the public discourse on society’s most pressing issues.

Blank is a frequent speaker on the importance of public research universities. She has been part of a vital national conversation about how to keep these institutions financially stable and thriving.

Her leadership has reinforced UW–Madison’s position as one of the world’s top 25 universities—a center for education, discovery, and research, committed to sharing knowledge and innovation that improves lives in Wisconsin and around the globe.
Sarah C. Mangelsdorf is the provost and vice chancellor for academic affairs at the University of Wisconsin–Madison. She began serving as provost in August 2014. She will be leaving Madison in June to become the next president of the University of Rochester (Rochester, NY).

Mangelsdorf came to Madison after serving six years as the dean of the Judd A. and Marjorie Weinberg College of Arts and Sciences at Northwestern University, where she was also a member of the Department of Psychology. Prior to Northwestern, Mangelsdorf served from 2004 to 2008 as the Henry E. Preble Dean of the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences at the University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign—the first woman to hold that position. She joined the University of Illinois Department of Psychology in 1991 and served as associate provost from 2001 to 2003 and head of the psychology department from 2003 to 2004. She previously served four years as an assistant professor of psychology at the University of Michigan.

Mangelsdorf’s scholarship focuses on social and emotional development in infancy and early childhood, and she is the author of numerous articles in developmental psychology. At the University of Illinois, she was honored several times for her teaching. She won the Mabel Hohenboken Teaching Award in 1997 and the William Prokasy Teaching Award, the college’s highest award for teaching, in 1998.

She has served on the editorial boards of five academic journals, chaired the Committee on Institutional Cooperation (CIC) Arts & Sciences Deans Group, and she currently serves as a trustee of the Erikson Institute in Chicago, and on the Executive Committee of the Council of Academic Affairs at the Association of Public and Land Grant Universities (APLU).

Mangelsdorf earned her undergraduate degree in psychology from Oberlin College in Ohio and her doctoral degree in child psychology from the University of Minnesota. In 2012, she received the Distinguished Alumni Achievement Award from the College of Education and Human Development at the University of Minnesota, and in 2013 she was named a fellow in the American Psychological Association (APA).
Pioneering scientist Thomas Brock, the E.B. Fred Professor of Natural Sciences Emeritus at UW–Madison, helped usher in modern molecular biology. Now, in his post-retirement work, he is promoting biodiversity and ecological conservation in innovative and important ways.

While a professor at Indiana University in the 1960s, Brock discovered the extreme thermophile Thermus aquaticus thriving in a hot spring at Yellowstone National Park. The discovery debunked a key piece of conventional wisdom in biology—that life could not exist past about 158 degrees Fahrenheit—and led to the creation of an entirely new field, extremophile biology. In 1967 and 1969, he published two defining papers on the new bacterium, in Science and the Journal of Bacteriology.

The bacteria’s heat-resistant DNA replicating machinery, Taq polymerase, was turned into a bedrock of modern molecular biology called polymerase chain reaction. Subsequent studies in the field have challenged assumptions about the nature and resilience of life and led to innumerable advances in molecular biology, DNA sequencing, medical research, clinical testing, and the reconstruction of evolution. These discoveries changed the understanding of the environmental limits for life—not just on Earth, but elsewhere in the universe.

Brock wrote the classic text Principles of Microbial Ecology, published in 1966. In 1971, with substantial support from the Wisconsin Alumni Research Foundation (WARF), he joined the faculty of UW–Madison. He continued his groundbreaking research on microbes, now with Lake Mendota as a laboratory.

His retirement in 1990 initiated a new focus. With his wife, Kathie, also a microbiologist, he has advanced the conservation and restoration of a Midwestern oak savanna, one of the most characteristic—and endangered—ecosystems of the central United States. The couple’s Pleasant Valley Conservancy property near Black Earth, Wisconsin, has become a model for land managers and a training ground for the next generation of restoration ecologists.

In recognition of his contributions to science and society both before and after his career at UW–Madison, Brock is being awarded an honorary doctorate of science.
HONORARY DEGREE

Steven H. Miller

As the lead guitarist and vocalist of the Steve Miller Band, Milwaukee-born musician and songwriter Steve Miller has entertained, inspired, and furthered the reach of traditional blues and rock ‘n’ roll music for decades.

Miller’s songs are among the most recognizable in music history, including “Fly Like an Eagle,” “The Joker,” “Jet Airliner,” and “Swingtown,” a staple at Badger sports games. The Steve Miller Band’s “Greatest Hits: 1974–78” is No. 35 on the list of the Top 100 best-selling albums of all time, according to the Recording Industry Association of America. “Abracadabra” is on Billboard’s list of the Top 100 singles of all time.

In the early 1960s, Miller spent seven semesters at UW–Madison as a comparative literature major, including a year abroad at the University of Copenhagen. While on campus, he created the Ardells and performed with the Knightrances, bands that played local clubs and parties.

Just shy of graduating, Miller moved to Chicago and began playing with legendary bluesmen Howlin’ Wolf, Muddy Waters, and James Cotton. In late 1966, he moved to San Francisco and started the Steve Miller Band—the beginning of his professional music career. In 2016, he was inducted into the Rock & Roll Hall of Fame. The Steve Miller Band continues to tour to sold-out crowds.

Outside of performing, Miller is a philanthropist and teacher known for his early and forceful advocacy of artists being paid fairly and retaining their musical intellectual property rights. He routinely shares his knowledge of the music industry with new generations of musicians, exemplifying the Wisconsin Idea. He serves on the visiting committee of the Department of Musical Instruments at the Metropolitan Museum of Art and on the Board of Directors of Jazz at Lincoln Center.

Miller returned most recently to UW–Madison in October 2017 for a sold-out homecoming show at the Wisconsin Union Theater. Proceeds benefited the Chancellor’s Scholarship Fund. During the visit, he served as guest conductor of the Wisconsin Marching Band and met with students for an interactive colloquium on careers in music.
John Robert Behling is the first Board of Regents president from the Chippewa Valley area, where he is an attorney with the Eau Claire law firm Weld Riley, S.C. He serves as the firm’s vice president and chairs its government and administrative law practice.

Behling previously worked as an aide to Wisconsin Governor Tommy Thompson in both Washington, D.C., and Madison, serving as the governor’s policy advisor on labor, employment, and regulatory issues. He also served in the state’s Department of Commerce.

Behling is a member of the Eau Claire Chamber of Commerce. His previous board service includes the Sacred Heart Hospital Foundation; Angel on My Shoulder, a statewide cancer support foundation; the Wisconsin 4-H Foundation Board; the Wisconsin Equal Justice Fund; the Northwest Passage Foundation; and the Wisconsin State Fair Park Youth Foundation.

Behling graduated from the University of Wisconsin–River Falls with a bachelor’s degree in political science and economics. He received his law degree from the University of Wisconsin Law School.

He was appointed and unanimously confirmed by the Wisconsin Senate to a position on the University of Wisconsin System Board of Regents in 2012. He was unanimously elected vice president of the Board of Regents in 2015 and 2016 and unanimously elected as president in 2017 and 2018.
Cora Marrett grew up in segregated Kenbridge, Virginia, as the twelfth child of parents with sixth-grade educations. Despite their limited formal education, they always encouraged her to learn.

Throughout her career, Marrett has worked to make science more inclusive using social science research to identify institutional conditions that promote inclusion and success for people from underrepresented backgrounds. She seeks to uncover the best educational strategies for teaching science in ways that inspire new generations of scientists. She stresses that inclusive science is better science, as it draws on and nurtures the talent of people from all backgrounds.

Marrett holds a bachelor’s degree from Virginia Union University and a master’s degree and a doctorate from UW–Madison, all in sociology. She held faculty positions at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill and Western Michigan University before returning to UW–Madison as a faculty member in 1974. From 1992 to 1996, she was an assistant director at the National Science Foundation (NSF), where she led the newly formed Directorate for Social, Behavioral and Economic Sciences.

In 1997, Marrett moved to the University of Massachusetts Amherst as provost, senior vice chancellor of academic affairs, and professor of sociology and Afro-American studies. From 2001 to 2007, Marrett was the University of Wisconsin System’s senior vice president for academic affairs. In 2007, she was hired once again as an NSF assistant director, which led to the job of acting director in 2010 and deputy director in 2011.

While at UW–Madison, she was regarded as a stellar teacher and mentor. She had appointments in sociology and Afro-American studies and was affiliated with the Energy Analysis and Policy program and the Wisconsin Center for Education Research.

In 2012, she was recognized by the Wisconsin Alumni Association with a Distinguished Alumni Award. In 2017, UW–Madison awarded Marrett an honorary degree for a career of extraordinary accomplishment.
Like many young people away at college, Clara Bewick sought to reassure her family that she was doing just fine.

“Let me say, for the 50th time, ‘Do not, under any circumstances, worry about me,’” she wrote in a letter home.

If her family members were a bit jittery, they can be forgiven. Bewick was writing in 1867 from the campus of the University of Wisconsin, which only recently had begun enrolling women.

Two years later, Bewick would be among the first class of six women at the university to graduate with bachelor’s degrees. Her classmates selected her valedictorian.

It was a prescient choice. Bewick would go on to become a prominent journalist, a tireless women’s rights advocate, and a suffragist of national renown. Her accomplishments and influence would do much to advance the cause of women in higher education.

Bewick impressed people from a young age. Born in England and raised on a modest farm near Windsor, Wisconsin, she was studious and bright, known for memorizing long literary passages.

As a teenager, she began teaching in a Dane County school. At 19, she entered UW. Her letters and diary entries suggest a college student enjoying campus life and appreciating the opportunities before her.

Her commencement address from 1869 brims with gratitude for the UW community. She addresses the historic nature of the moment only briefly while acknowledging the presence of the Board of Regents.

“We thank you, gentlemen, that through your efforts, we graduate today from a regularly organized female college. We thank you for your recognition of woman’s wants and woman’s capabilities.”

Bewick spent the next few years teaching Latin and history to female students at UW while taking graduate-level classes in French, Greek, and chemistry. Alas, her time at UW ended in 1870 over a compensation dispute. She felt strongly that her experience and her performance as an instructor the prior year entitled her to a raise.

“She took a bit of a stand but probably misjudged her negotiating position,” says John Holliday, of Gold Coast, Australia, a second cousin twice-removed of Bewick’s who is researching a book on her life.

“They said no and told her she must decide whether to stay or resign. She resigned.”

The following year, she married Leonard Wright Colby, a UW law graduate, and became known professionally as Clara Bewick Colby.

The couple soon moved to Beatrice, Nebraska, where Leonard set up a thriving law practice and Clara began the professional and civic-minded endeavors that would define the rest of her life.

She established the Beatrice Public Library, served as principal of the school district, and helped form the Nebraska Woman Suffrage Association, serving as its president for 13 years.

A prolific writer and speaker, she founded, in 1883, The Woman’s Tribune, considered for several years the voice of the American suffrage movement. She published the Tribune for 26 years, largely by herself and on a shoestring budget. It was the second-longest-running woman suffrage paper in the U.S.

In 1916, while crossing the U.S., Bewick Colby developed a cold that turned into pneumonia. She died that year at age 70. Four years later, the 19th Amendment gave women the vote.

Bewick Colby is not as well-known as other suffragists for a variety of reasons, including her approach to suffrage work, says Kristin Mapel Bloomberg, a professor of women’s studies at Hamline University who is writing a book on Bewick Colby.

“She had that Wisconsin pioneer work ethic,” Mapel Bloomberg says. “She always saw herself as someone who did the hard work behind the scenes without needing to get a lot of individual credit.”

In her commencement speech at UW, Bewick Colby told her fellow graduates that solemn responsibilities awaited them. She urged them to look at the past lovingly but not regretfully.

“A broader and nobler life lies before us,” she said. “Let us hasten to make it our own.”

A longer version of this story, as well as profiles of other prominent UW–Madison women in history, can be found at wisc.edu/women.

1863 • First women admitted in the Normal School, sparked by the university losing much of its male population during the Civil War.

1867 • To satisfy President Paul Chadbourne's anti-coeducation views, the Normal Department is abolished and replaced by the separate Female College.

1869 • First bachelor's degrees awarded to women.

1871 • Ladies Hall constructed to house the Wisconsin Female College as a place for women to live and study.

1874 • Women receive full coeducational status, sharing classes with men. The Female College closes. Ladies Hall becomes a women’s dormitory.

1901 • Ladies Hall is renamed Chadbourne Hall by President Birge. “President Chadbourne secured the appropriation for the building,” Birge said. “I thought it was only fair that Dr. Chadbourne's contumacy regarding coeducation should be punished by attaching his name to a building which turned out [to be] one of the main supports of coeducation.”

1918 • Mabel Watson Rainey is believed to be the first African-American woman graduate, earning a degree in English. In 1927, she becomes the first African-American woman to practice law in Wisconsin.

She is the first woman to fill the role and helps set policy for more than 550 federally recognized tribes. She is also the first member of the Menominee Nation to graduate from UW–Madison, receiving her bachelor's in social work in 1957, and the first Native American woman to run for Congress in Wisconsin, in 1992.

2016 • Police Chief Sue Riesling retires after 25 years. She was the first woman and youngest person to head a Big Ten university police force.

2019 • About 4,500 women graduate from UW–Madison, marking the 150th anniversary of the first graduating class of six women.
The University of Wisconsin–Madison

The University of Wisconsin–Madison and its alumni have a rich tradition of national and international leadership in teaching, research, entrepreneurship, and public service. We regularly rank near the top in research dollars and are rated among the strongest in the world in international reputation. And, as any visitor can readily attest, our beautiful lakeshore campus is considered to be among the nation’s most picturesque.

This university has existed for as long as Wisconsin has been a state, tracing its roots to a clause in the Constitution of the State of Wisconsin decreeing that the young state should have a prominent public university. In 1848, legislators passed a bill that formally created the University of Wisconsin. Its first class, with 17 students, met in Madison on February 5, 1849.

From these humble beginnings, the university has grown into a large, diverse community with more than 44,000 students representing every county in Wisconsin, 50 states, and 127 countries.

Across campus, the words “sifting and winnowing” often appear when describing UW–Madison’s intellectual life. They date back to an 1894 Board of Regents statement on academic freedom:

Whatever may be the limitations which trammel inquiry elsewhere, we believe that the great state University of Wisconsin should ever encourage that continual and fearless sifting and winnowing by which alone the truth can be found.

Inspired by this spirit, scholarly inquiry has fed a steady stream of discoveries. From vitamins, agricultural techniques and wildlife ecology to stem cells, biofuels and economic well-being, the university continues to foster ideas and research that change lives.

UW–Madison is the oldest and largest campus in the University of Wisconsin System. Its mission is to provide “a learning environment in which faculty, staff, and students can discover, examine critically, preserve and transmit the knowledge, wisdom, and values that will help ensure the survival of this and future generations and improve the quality of life for all.”

The university strives to achieve these ends through the continual advancement of its teaching, research, and public service programs. Throughout its history, the university has sought to bring the power of learning into students’ daily lives through innovations such as residential learning communities and service learning courses.

We are motivated by the “Wisconsin Idea”—articulated a century ago as the principle that the university’s influence should benefit everyone in the state. Today, this principle has expanded to a global scale. The Wisconsin Idea continues to permeate everything we do, helping to forge close partnerships between faculty, staff and students, and people, communities, and industries around the world.

Program Notes

The school and college flags used in today’s ceremony were commissioned for Commencement by Chancellor Rebecca Blank. They are used in this and other similar ceremonies, including the Chancellor’s Convocation for incoming students—the complementary celebration to Commencement that begins students’ university careers.

The flags’ background wave design reflects the university’s location along Lake Mendota. Colors on each flag reflect the traditional academic colors for the courses of study within each school or college. The Graduate School, School of Education, and College of Letters & Science are multicolored, representing their varied disciplines. Flags also feature the year in which each school or college was founded, from 1848 for the Law School and School of Medicine and Public Health (authorized in the charter for the newly created university) to 1983 for the School of Veterinary Medicine.

Flag bearers in the opening procession were selected by the dean of each school and college to represent their fellow students:

Gowns
Gowns represent the three principal levels of academic achievement. The bachelor’s gown, symbolizing the first degree, is made of black material and has a closed front and long, pointed, open sleeves. Master’s candidates wear a black gown with a closed front and long, closed sleeves. The gown worn by doctoral candidates has an open front with bell-shaped sleeves. Doctoral gowns are further embellished with velvet trim in the form of crossbars on the sleeves. In spring 2017, the gown designs were updated to include the University of Wisconsin–Madison colors and crest logo, providing both a pop of red among the traditional sea of black and an additional display of UW spirit that’s recognizable to all.

Hoods
Academic hoods are used as a further means of identifying the level of degree attainment. The bachelor’s hood, worn only by those who have previously received a baccalaureate degree, is rather short with a narrow velvet edging the color of the appropriate discipline and a lining in the color of the institution—cardinal at Wisconsin. The master’s hood is considerably longer, has a wider velvet edging and exposes more of the lining. Doctoral hoods have the widest velvet edging and expose all of the lining. Doctoral hoods have the widest velvet edging, wide panels at either side, greater length, and a fully exposed lining.

Caps and Tassels
Candidates for the bachelor’s degree wear the black mortarboard cap with tassels of their course color. The tassel is worn on the right side until the formal conferral of the degree. At that time, the tassel is moved from the right to the left side. Candidates for the Law JD and SJD degrees wear an 8-sided black tam with a gold tassel. Candidates for all advanced degrees wear black mortarboard caps with black tassels on the left side. Some holders of degrees from other countries or institutions wear special hats which are distinctive to their degree. Graduates displaying the red and white philanthropy cord have chosen to make a financial gift commitment of support to the university.

Honors
Bachelor’s degree candidates with distinctive scholastic achievement wear cardinal stoles over the fronts of their gowns. Bachelor’s degree candidates participating in an honors program wear white stoles with cardinal bars.

Honorary Degrees

Honorary degrees from UW–Madison recognize individuals with careers of extraordinary accomplishment. The Committee on Honorary Degrees looks to sustained and characteristic activity as its warrant: uncommonly meritorious activity exhibiting values that are esteemed by UW–Madison. Preference is given to those who are connected in some significant way to the state or the university.

Schools, colleges, and departments submit nominations to the Committee on Honorary Degrees, a central part in the process of awarding honorary degrees. The committee is composed of 28 members, including the chancellor and the UW System president or their designees. 16 members are selected by the faculty, four from each of the four faculty divisions of the university (arts and humanities, biological sciences, physical sciences, social sciences). The chancellor appoints 10 members from the faculty or the administration.

Finalists are submitted to the chancellor and the Board of Regents for review. Once approved, the Faculty Senate votes, with a three-fourths affirmative vote required for confirmation.

As a matter of policy, emeritus faculty members are not eligible for honorary degrees solely on the basis of their performance while at UW–Madison. The university cannot grant honorary degrees to those who have held elected office in the state in the past two years, nor to anyone employed by the University of Wisconsin within the past two years.
This list of graduate degree candidates was compiled from information available to the Office of the Registrar and to the Graduate School as of March 29, 2019, and should not be regarded as conclusive evidence of graduation or academic standing.

Selection as an honors candidate indicates participation in the Honors Program in the student’s school or college.

This list of undergraduate degree candidates was compiled from information available to the Office of the Registrar as of March 29, 2019, and should not be regarded as conclusive evidence of graduation or academic standing.

UW–Madison does not use Latin honorifics such as cum laude. Students honored for distinctive scholastic achievement have completed a minimum of 60 credits at UW–Madison and have a cumulative grade-point average placing them within the top 20 percent of graduating students in the school or college.

Selection as an honors candidate indicates participation in the Honors Program in the student’s school or college.
