KEYNOTE SPEAKER

Jason Gay

UW–Madison alum Jason Gay is the Wall Street Journal’s sports columnist and a humor columnist for its Review section. Since joining the newspaper in 2009, he has written a several-times-a-week column that shifts regularly from irreverent topics to more serious themes. He has covered events ranging from the Super Bowl and the Olympics to the Masters Golf Tournament and the Tour de France.

Born in Boston, Gay grew up in the nearby suburb of Belmont, Massachusetts, where he says he had an embarrassing and forgettable career in baseball, basketball, cross country, and tennis. He has competed as an amateur bike racer, finishing dead last in races from New York to Rwanda.

Gay began his reporting career covering Little League baseball for the Vineyard Gazette on Martha’s Vineyard, Massachusetts. Later, he would work as a writer and editor for publications including GQ, Rolling Stone, The New York Observer, and the Boston Phoenix. The author of the 2015 bestseller Little Victories, he was named Sports Columnist of the Year by the Society of Professional Journalists in 2016. He has been a finalist for the Thurber Prize for American Humor.

Gay graduated from UW–Madison in 1992, earning a bachelor’s degree in political science. He loves his alma mater, as evidenced by a 2018 column, “Badgers Must Beat Michigan to Save the World,” and its follow-up this fall, “Yes, to Save the World, Wisconsin Really Needs to Beat Michigan.” Gay lives in Brooklyn with his wife, Bessie, their two children, Jesse and Jojo, and a passive-aggressive cat.
Rebecca M. Blank became chancellor of the University of Wisconsin–Madison in July 2013. Since then, she has presided over a major effort to expand and improve educational opportunities, both inside and outside of the classroom, to better prepare students to succeed in a rapidly changing economy. At the same time, she has worked to maintain the university’s position as a global leader in innovation and research and has emphasized the role of the university in nurturing entrepreneurship and driving economic development.

Blank is an internationally respected economist who has also spent time in Washington, DC, working in three different administrations. Most recently, she served as Deputy Secretary and Acting Secretary of the US Department of Commerce under President Obama.

She also brings strong academic credentials to the position of chancellor. She served as dean and professor of public policy and economics in the Gerald R. Ford School of Public Policy at the University of Michigan from 1999 to 2008. In her role as dean, she launched such innovations as interdisciplinary graduate programs and an undergraduate public policy major. Earlier in her career, she was a member of the faculty at Northwestern University and Princeton University.

A native Midwesterner, Blank earned an undergraduate degree in economics from the University of Minnesota and a doctoral degree in economics from MIT.

In 2015, Blank was awarded the Daniel Patrick Moynihan Prize by the American Academy of Political and Social Science. The prize honors individuals who use sound analysis and social science research to inform public policy while also contributing to the public discourse on society’s most pressing issues.

Blank is a frequent speaker on the importance of public research universities. She has been part of a vital national conversation about how to keep these institutions financially stable and thriving.

Her leadership has reinforced UW–Madison’s position as one of the world’s top 25 universities—a center for education, discovery, and research, committed to sharing knowledge and innovation that improves lives in Wisconsin and around the globe.
John Karl Scholz began serving as provost in August 2019 after six years as the dean of the College of Letters & Science at UW–Madison. Scholz is also the Nellie June Gray Professor of Economic Policy in the Department of Economics, which he joined in 1988.

From 1997 to 1998, Scholz was the deputy assistant secretary for tax analysis at the US Treasury Department, and from 1990 to 1991 he was a senior staff economist at the Council of Economic Advisors. Scholz directed the Institute for Research on Poverty at UW–Madison from 2000 to 2004.

Professor Scholz is an internationally respected economist whose work on household saving, low-wage labor markets, financial barriers to higher education, and bankruptcy has appeared in leading economics journals.

A native of Nebraska, Scholz graduated from Carleton College in Northfield, Minnesota, and earned his doctorate from Stanford University.
Tracey L. Klein is an attorney and shareholder with the national law firm of Polsinelli. Klein has served as general counsel to acute care hospitals, multi-provider health care systems, multi-specialty clinics, managed care companies, and health insurance companies for more than 30 years. She has experience in regional and national transactions involving health care providers and health insurance companies.

Klein is Board Chair of Milwaukee Film and a member of the Greater Milwaukee Committee. She served as a member of the Board of Visitors of the UW–Madison Political Science Department from 2010 to 2016 and is also a past member of the advisory board for the College of Health Sciences at UW–Milwaukee.

Klein graduated from UW–Madison in 1980 with a bachelor of arts degree in political science and received her law degree from Marquette University Law School in 1984.
STUDENT KEYNOTE SPEAKER

Lisa Kamal

 Raised in Kuala Lumpur, Malaysia, Lisa Kamal has been attending UW–Madison on a scholarship awarded by Petronas, an oil and gas corporation owned by the government of Malaysia. She is earning a bachelor’s degree in geology and will return to Malaysia after winter commencement to begin work at the company.

While on campus, Lisa received numerous honors for her academic work, including the Lowell R. Laudon Outstanding Junior Scholarship Award from the Department of Geoscience and an On To the Future Award for underrepresented students in geosciences from the Geological Society of America. She was awarded a 2019 Hilldale Undergraduate Research Fellowship to study electron beam damage on carbonate standards, her senior project. Beginning as a freshman, she was employed as a student worker for the Wisconsin Geological & Natural History Survey, part of the UW–Madison Division of Extension.

Outside of her major, Lisa greatly enjoyed exploring her creative side. Her favorite electives were dance classes, and she sang, dance, and acted in theater productions as part of Malaysian Night, an annual cultural celebration that she helped bring back to campus as an officer with the Malaysian Students Association. Last spring, she co-wrote and acted in a play performed at Malaysian Night and set during the 2018 Malaysian general election.
The Senior Class Officers comprise two elected officers, the President and Vice President, and three selected officers, the Communications, Events, and Philanthropy Directors. Elections and interviews took place in the spring semester prior to the beginning of their service in the fall of their senior year.

Part of the Division of Student Life, the officers also partner with the Wisconsin Foundation and Alumni Association (WFAA) and the Office of the Chancellor. The Senior Class Officers plan spring and winter commencement as well as senior social events and senior week events in cooperation with WFAA.

Lauren Sorensen, Senior Class President

A graduate of West Bend East High School, Lauren is pursuing a double major in political science and French, with a certificate in African studies. She recently was awarded a prestigious Boren Scholarship, which is offered to students interested in learning about national security and critical regional languages. As part of this scholarship, Lauren spent the 2018–19 academic year studying international development, French, and Wolof in Senegal. Alongside taking classes there, she completed internships with non-governmental human rights organizations and conducted independent field research on the intersection of religion and politics. She will use her research to complete her senior honors thesis this year, which is supported by a Hilldale Undergraduate Research Fellowship Award. An active community member, Lauren has interned for state Sen. Lena Taylor and volunteered with the Badger Volunteers student organization and the Dane County chapter of Habitat for Humanity. After graduation, she aims to gain experience in international affairs before pursuing a law degree.

Alyssa Birkeland, Senior Class Vice President

Originally from West Bend, Wisconsin, Alyssa is a student in the Wisconsin School of Business majoring in management, human resources, and political science, with a certificate in Spanish. Active in conservative politics, she serves as the vice chair of the College Republicans and has interned in the Governor’s Office and for the Republican Party of Wisconsin. Alyssa’s other involvements on campus include being a part of the Wisconsin Admissions Volunteers, the Political Science Student Association, and the Collegiate Farm Bureau. She spent the past summer studying abroad and traveling throughout Scandinavia with the Brittingham Viking organization, of which she is a proud member. Alyssa currently works for the Wisconsin Alumni Association as a political advocacy intern, where she makes her abundant pride for the state and university apparent. After graduation, she hopes to work in Washington, DC, for a few years before returning home to Wisconsin.
Kayla Huynh,
Senior Class Communications Director
Kayla, of Bloomington-Normal, Illinois, is pursuing a journalism degree in strategic communication and reporting, with a certificate in Asian American studies. She is the special pages editor for UW–Madison’s student newspaper The Daily Cardinal, and editor-in-chief of the 18th edition of Curb magazine, a student-produced lifestyle magazine. Kayla is the public relations chair of the College of Letters & Science honors student organization and previously served as a copy chief and writer for The Daily Cardinal. As a student communications specialist for University Communications, she writes for UW–Madison’s central news bureau and helps create The Weekly, the university’s e-newsletter for students. She has interned at Country Financial as a content specialist and currently works as a social impact storyteller at American Family Insurance’s Institute for Corporate and Social Impact. When she’s not writing, Kayla can be found dancing on the Wisconsin Premiere dance team or looking for her next big story.

Chris Gitter,
Senior Class Philanthropy Director
A graduate of Saint Thomas Academy in Mendota Heights, Minnesota, Chris is majoring in pharmacology and toxicology, with certificates in environmental studies and global health. His passion for connecting the environment and personal health was sparked as a member of the campus Greenhouse Learning Community. Outside the classroom, he has stayed busy with field, laboratory, and clinical research, including traveling to the Tiputini Biodiversity Station as a member of the Rainforest and Coral Reefs first-year interest group. He also studied the role of protein kinases in the Dai pharmaceutical sciences lab. Chris has completed clinical research internships with the Minnesota Urology Foundation and the Minneapolis Heart Institute Foundation. He serves as the community events director on the Wisconsin Homecoming Committee and as a co-president of the UW–Madison chapter of Be the Match on Campus, a national bone marrow registry. After graduation, Chris will continue clinical cardiology research with the Minneapolis Heart Institute Foundation prior to applying to medical school.

Sonam Dolma,
Senior Class Events Director
Born and raised in a Tibetan refugee settlement in Northern India, Sonam is pursuing a degree in biochemistry with honors in research, along with a certificate in leadership and South Asian studies. As a Biochemistry Scholar, she will be working on a senior honors thesis supported by a Hilldale Undergraduate Research Fellowship Award. During the academic year, Sonam is a housing fellow for UW residence halls. During her summers, she has completed several pre-medical internships with the Summer Health Professions Education Program in California and the Summer Medical Leadership Program at the University of Virginia School of Medicine. Sonam is dedicated to serving and advocating for the Tibetan community. She volunteers with UW Hospital and the Wisconsin Tibetan Association as a teacher to help preserve Tibetan language and culture, and she is piloting a mentorship guidance program for first-generation Tibetan high school students in the Madison area. After graduating, she plans to apply to medical school and continue her efforts to serve the Tibetan diaspora.
As UW–Madison marks milestone, a look at the first female valedictorian

BY DOUG ERICKSON

Like many young people away at college, Clara Bewick sought to reassure her family that she was doing just fine.

“Let me say, for the 50th time, ‘Do not, under any circumstances, worry about me,’” she wrote in a letter home.

If her family members were a bit jittery, they can be forgiven. Bewick was writing in 1867 from the campus of the University of Wisconsin, which only recently had begun enrolling women.

Two years later, Bewick would be among the first class of six women at the university to graduate with bachelor’s degrees. Her classmates selected her valedictorian.

It was a prescient choice. Bewick would go on to become a prominent journalist, a tireless women’s rights advocate, and a suffragist of national renown. Her accomplishments and influence would do much to advance the cause of women in higher education.

Bewick impressed people from a young age. Born in England and raised on a modest farm near Windsor, Wisconsin, she was studious and bright, known for memorizing long literary passages.

As a teenager, she began teaching in a Dane County school. At 19, she entered UW. Her letters and diary entries suggest a college student enjoying campus life and appreciating the opportunities before her.

Her commencement address from 1869 brims with gratitude for today from a regularly organized female college. We thank you for your recognition of woman’s wants and woman’s capabilities.”

Bewick spent the next few years teaching Latin and history to female students at UW while taking graduate-level classes in French, Greek and chemistry. Alas, her time at UW ended in 1870 over a compensation dispute. She felt strongly that her experience and her performance as an instructor the prior year entitled her to a raise.

“She took a bit of a stand but probably misjudged her negotiating position,” says John Holliday, of Gold Coast, Australia, a second cousin twice-removed of Bewick’s who is researching a book on her life.

“They said no and told her she must decide whether to stay or resign. She resigned.”

The following year, she married Leonard Wright Colby, a UW law graduate, and became known professionally as Clara Bewick Colby.

The couple soon moved to Beatrice, Nebraska, where Leonard set up a thriving law practice and Clara began the professional and civic-minded endeavors that would define the rest of her life.

She established the Beatrice Public Library, served as principal of the school district, and helped form the Nebraska Woman Suffrage Association, serving as its president for 13 years.

A prolific writer and speaker, she founded, in 1883, The Woman’s Tribune, considered for several years the voice of the American... suffrage movement. She published the Tribune for 26 years, largely by herself and on a shoestring budget. It was the second-longest-running woman suffrage paper in the US.

In 1916, while crossing the US, Bewick Colby developed a cold that turned into pneumonia. She died that year at age 70. Four years later, the 19th Amendment gave women the vote.

Bewick Colby is not as well-known as other suffragists for a variety of reasons, including her approach to suffrage work, says Kristin Mapel Bloomberg, a professor of women's studies at Hamline University who is writing a book on Bewick Colby.

“She had that Wisconsin pioneer work ethic,” Mapel Bloomberg says. “She always saw herself as someone who did the hard work behind the scenes without needing to get a lot of individual credit.”

In her commencement speech at UW, Bewick Colby told her fellow graduates that solemn responsibilities awaited them. She urged them to look at the past lovingly but not regretfully.

“A broader and nobler life lies before us,” she said. “Let us hasten to make it our own.”

MOMENTS IN WOMEN’S HISTORY AT UW

1863 • First women admitted in the Normal School, sparked by the university losing much of its male population during the Civil War.

1867 • To satisfy President Paul Chadbourne’s anti-coeducation views, the Normal Department is abolished and replaced by the separate Female College.

1869 • First bachelor's degrees awarded to women.

1871 • Ladies Hall constructed to house the Wisconsin Female College as a place for women to live and study.

1874 • Women receive full coeducational status, sharing classes with men. The Female College closes. Ladies Hall becomes a women's dormitory.

1901 • Ladies Hall is renamed Chadbourne Hall by President Birge. “President Chadbourne secured the appropriation for the building,” Birge said. “I thought it was only fair that Dr. Chadbourne's contumacy regarding coeducation should be punished by attaching his name to a building which turned out [to be] one of the main supports of coeducation.”

1918 • Mabel Watson Raimey is believed to be the first African-American woman graduate, earning a degree in English. In 1927, she becomes the first African-American woman to practice law in Wisconsin.

1926 • Emily Hahn is the first woman to earn an engineering degree.

1951 • Vel Phillips is the first African-American woman to graduate from the Law School.

1959 • Former student Lorraine Hansberry's A Raisin in the Sun premieres on Broadway. Hansberry is the first African-American woman to have a play produced on Broadway.

1965 • Sister Mary Kenneth Keller becomes the first American to earn a PhD in computer science.

1966 • The National Organization for Women, launched by Professor Kathryn Clarenbach and Betty Friedan, is first housed in Clarenbach's faculty office.

1974 • The Women's Intercollegiate Athletic Program is created following the passage of Title IX in 1972, with a budget of $118,000 for 11 sports.

1975 • The Women's Studies Program is founded. In 1980, it becomes the Department of Gender & Women's Studies.

1980 • Gerda Lerner establishes the nation's first PhD program in women's history.

1988 • Donna Shalala becomes the first female chancellor and also the first woman to lead a Big Ten school.

1992 • The LGBT Center opens on campus. It is now known as the Gender and Sexuality Campus Center.

1993 • Ada Deer is appointed head of the Bureau of Indian Affairs by President Bill Clinton. She is the first woman to fill the role and helps set policy for more than 550 federally recognized tribes. She is also the first member of the Menominee Nation to graduate from UW–Madison, receiving her bachelor's in social work in 1957, and the first Native American woman to run for Congress in Wisconsin, in 1992.

1996 • The National Organization for Women, launched by Professor Kathryn Clarenbach and Betty Friedan, is first housed in Clarenbach's faculty office.

2016 • Police Chief Sue Riesling retires after 25 years. She was the first woman and youngest person to head a Big Ten university police force.

2019 • About 4,500 women graduated in spring 2019 from UW–Madison, marking the 150th anniversary of the first graduating class of six women.
The University of Wisconsin–Madison

The University of Wisconsin–Madison and its alumni have a rich tradition of national and international leadership in teaching, research, entrepreneurship, and public service. We regularly rank near the top in research dollars and are rated among the strongest in the world in international reputation. And, as any visitor can readily attest, our beautiful lakeshore campus is considered to be among the nation’s most picturesque.

This university has existed for as long as Wisconsin has been a state, tracing its roots to a clause in the Constitution of the State of Wisconsin decreeing that the young state should have a prominent public university. In 1848, legislators passed a bill that formally created the University of Wisconsin. Its first class, with 17 students, met in Madison on February 5, 1849.

From these humble beginnings, the university has grown into a large, diverse community with more than 45,000 students representing every county in Wisconsin, 50 states, and 134 countries.

Across campus, the words “sifting and winnowing” often appear when describing UW–Madison’s intellectual life. They date back to an 1894 Board of Regents statement on academic freedom:

“Whatsoever may be the limitations which trammel inquiry elsewhere, we believe that the great state University of Wisconsin should ever encourage that continual and fearless sifting and winnowing by which alone the truth can be found.”

Inspired by this spirit, scholarly inquiry has fed a steady stream of discoveries. From vitamins, agricultural techniques and wildlife ecology to stem cells, biofuels and economic well-being, the university continues to foster ideas and research that change lives.

UW–Madison is the oldest and largest campus in the University of Wisconsin System. Its mission is to provide “a learning environment in which faculty, staff, and students can discover, examine critically, preserve and transmit the knowledge, wisdom, and values that will help ensure the survival of this and future generations and improve the quality of life for all.”

The university strives to achieve these ends through the continual advancement of its teaching, research, and public service programs. Throughout its history, the university has sought to bring the power of learning into students’ daily lives through innovations such as residential learning communities and service learning courses.

We are motivated by the “Wisconsin Idea”—articulated a century ago as the principle that the university’s influence should benefit everyone in the state. Today, this principle has expanded to a global scale. The Wisconsin Idea continues to permeate everything we do, helping to forge close partnerships between faculty, staff, and students, and people, communities, and industries around the world.
Program Notes

The school and college flags used in today’s ceremony were commissioned for Commencement by Chancellor Rebecca Blank. They are used in this and other similar ceremonies, including the Chancellor’s Convocation for incoming students—the complementary celebration to Commencement that begins students’ university careers.

The flags’ background wave design reflects the university’s location along Lake Mendota. Colors on each flag reflect the traditional academic colors for the courses of study within each school or college. The Graduate School, School of Education, and College of Letters & Science are multicolored, representing their varied disciplines. Flags also feature the year in which each school or college was founded, from 1848 for the Law School and School of Medicine and Public Health (authorized in the charter for the newly created university) to 1983 for the School of Veterinary Medicine.

Flag bearers in the opening procession were selected by the dean of each school and college to represent their fellow students:

Gowns
Gowns represent the three principal levels of academic achievement. The bachelor’s gown, symbolizing the first degree, is made of black material and has a closed front and long, pointed, open sleeves. Master's candidates wear a black gown with a closed front and long, closed sleeves. The gown worn by doctoral candidates has an open front with bell-shaped sleeves. Doctoral gowns are further embellished with velvet trim in the form of crossbars on the sleeves. In spring 2017, the gown designs were updated to include the University of Wisconsin–Madison colors and crest logo, providing both a pop of red among the traditional sea of black and an additional display of UW spirit that’s recognizable to all.

Hoods
Academic hoods are used as a further means of identifying the level of degree attainment. The bachelor's hood, worn only by those who have previously received a baccalaureate degree, is rather short with a narrow velvet edging the color of the appropriate discipline and a lining in the color of the institution—cardinal at Wisconsin. The master's hood is considerably longer, has a wider velvet edging, and exposes more of the lining. Doctoral hoods have the widest velvet edging, wide panels at either side, greater length, and a fully exposed lining.

Caps and Tassels
Candidates for the bachelor’s degree wear the black mortarboard cap with tassels of their course color. The tassel is worn on the right side until the formal conferral of the degree. At that time, the tassel is moved from the right to the left side. Candidates for the Law JD and SJD degrees wear an 8-sided black tam with a gold tassel. Candidates for all advanced degrees wear black mortarboard caps with black tassels on the left side. Some holders of degrees from other countries or institutions wear special hats which are distinctive to their degree. Graduates displaying the red and white philanthropy cord have chosen to make a financial gift commitment of support to the university.

Honors
Bachelor’s degree candidates with distinctive scholastic achievement wear cardinal stoles over the fronts of their gowns. Bachelor’s degree candidates participating in an honors program wear white stoles with cardinal bars.

This list of undergraduate degree candidates was compiled from information available to the Office of the Registrar as of November 1, 2019, and should not be regarded as conclusive evidence of graduation or academic standing.

Selection as an honors candidate indicates participation in the honors program in the student’s school or college and does not necessarily indicate fulfillment of the requirements for a degree with honors.

A student selected for distinctive scholastic achievement has completed a minimum of 60 credits at UW–Madison and has a cumulative grade-point average placing them within the top 20% of graduating students in the school or college.
